INFORMATION

The Church Camp Fire evacuation will be lifted in phases.

The current plan is that we will allow those owners that have suffered damage to enter the area on Saturday July 7. We will start at 0800. Those owners that wish to examine their property will need to go to the road block at the top of Indian Canyon and check in. This will be the only access point. Owners will need to show identification and be on our list in order to enter the area. Most of the owners on that list have been contacted and have received this information. There will be some safety information provided at that point prior to entry. We want to emphasize that Saturday is for those that we have contacted, or will contact prior to then. Damage to property information has been provided by the Fire assessment team and we are relying on that information on who to contact that have suffered damage to their property.

Sunday July 8 at 0800 we will open the area to the other owners of property in addition to those listed above. Again, they will need to provide identification at the same location, and if not on the damaged property list, show proof of ownership in the form of a tax notice, power bill or other official document. Access to the closed area will be limited to owners only for a few days. We will lift the road blocks as soon as possible.
