Pole Creek Fire

Whiterocks, Utah ... The Pole Creek fire is currently 2028 acres and is 60% contained burning in timber, piñon juniper, sage and grass about 8 miles northwest of Whiterocks, Utah.

Today firefighters worked to secure line established yesterday on the eastern edge and worked on line along northern edge of the fire, and patrolled the southern and western edges of the fire.

There are no closures or evacuations. One firefighter suffered a minor injury today. Firefighters are working along steep slopes with loose rocks.

Fire activity was moderate again today with interior torching and smoldering and creeping fire.

There are currently 57 firefighters and 2 engines assigned to the fire.

The Pole Creek Fire transitioned at 6 a.m. this morning to Shawn Jaca's Type 3 Incident Command Team and an incident command post has been established at the grade school in Neola, Utah.
